MORE THAN JUST A SPORTS CAMP

Ask one of our 1200 children what they experienced this summer but be prepared for a long answer. With over 20 different sports, physical activities, elite athlete master classes, first aid, cooking, nutrition, literacy, drama, music, arts and crafts, inflatables, fishing and dance making up the programme.

Dig a little deeper and you will hear about the new relationships and lasting friendships they have made. How they have improved their confidence and self-esteem by being taken out of their comfort zone, all with the safety net of our coaches.

What do you want to be when you get older? We asked a young boy. “I want to be like Tom” he said. One of our many exceptional coaches who are positive role models for each and every child we support.

We know we are stronger together and this extends beyond the Fusion Family. Thank you to everyone who made camp a magical experience for so many children. To our funders and commissioners, Doncaster Council and the Department for Education. The schools, who opened up their facilities to the community and the immeasurable number of partners from the voluntary and community sector who enriched our Fusion Camp programme with a diverse range of creative and cultural opportunities. To the parents, who trust in us to safeguard their children and provide a positive experience to all. To the children and young people, who never fail to keep us on our toes and help us to stay grounded. However, the glue that holds all of this together are our heroes in red, the Active Fusion coaching team who bring their energy every day delivering with passion, pride and a positive mindset to make a difference to young lives.

To you all – we Thank You for a fantastic Fusion Summer 2021!

Director, Lindsay James

BENTLEY HIGH STREET - Lilly-Ann's Story

Lilly-Ann is 6-years-old and accessed over 210 hours of Fusion Camp provision at Bentley High Street Primary School in Doncaster. Lilly-Ann's parents applied to Active Fusion to access support so that they could continue to work during the summer break.

Lilly-Ann shared that in the past, her parents were unable to access suitable support during holidays. As a result, Lily-Ann would be limited to activity in and around the home, often on her own. She was therefore unable to play with her friends and could only use the resources she had at home.

With a range of physical and creative activities across the camp programme, Lily-Ann shared why camp was important to her. She said, "Making friends is my favourite part of camp". Sharing how she has grown in confidence, not just in making new friends but in trying new things every week.

"I loved learning about food and why it's important to eat healthy food. I tried so many new things and would definitely like to try making the food at home with my Mum and Dad."

Lilly-Ann also enjoyed the Creative Writing workshops led by the Literacy Trust. She took delight in sharing how excited she was to take home one of the books and to keep it! "My Mum and I sat down to read it together when I got home. That was great too".

"I tried so many new things and will definitely like to try making the food at home"

- Lilly-Ann

Coaches on camp saw Lily-Ann grow in confidence and resilience to keep trying with physical activities she was less familiar with at the start of the summer. Her growing independence and freedom to enjoy camp with friends led to her developing new skills and work more as a team.

"If I wasn't on Camp I would be bored at home, watching TV. I really wouldn't have been as active as I have been!"

She is one of over 1200 children that attended camp provision across Doncaster funded through the Department for Education Holiday Activity Fund. Children in need, like Lily-Ann, were able to take part in positive activities led by our specialist Coaching team in order to keep them safe, fit and fed when parents need us the most.

IVANHOE - Parents and Carers Stories

Brett, Uncle of William

"William has so much energy. It is hard finding things to keep him busy, especially with the lack of structure of the holidays at home. William loves sport. We have seen a real difference in his confidence and ability to relate to other children from other schools."

"Basketball with Danum Eagles today was my favourite activity. The Coaches are great too. Without camp, I would be home doing very little, and bored. I have made new friends I hope to stay in contact with for when I go to my next school."

Grandma of Isla and Megan

"Camp for the girls has just been fantastic. I have very little energy to match their needs. Camp is full of a range of activities I simply don't know how to do. So having specialist support to meet their needs is great for me and obviously for their Mum and Dad who have to work during holidays."

Sophie, Mother of George

"George has really grown in confidence over the summer. He loves working with the coaches and trying new activities and learning new skills. It has been so much help to me too. Not having to worry about my mum having to look after them all. George needs to be entertained and is always on the go, so this has been an amazing experience for him"

Carl, Father of Jack and his Brother Fred

"Camp has been so good for Jack. He loves working with the Coaches on Camp, especially Bailey. Jack is a really active kid and needs activities like this to burn off all his energy. I cannot always support what he needs at home with Fred as well. He has made so many friends and seems so much happier coming here and learning new things."

MALLARD - Layla-Mae's Story

Layla Mae attended Mallard Camp during the holidays. Layla is a very social person and enjoys making new friends and interacting with others, however, due to lock down she was unable to do so. Throughout lock down, many children's social skills have suffered. Losing out on the essential role of socialising and physical activity, has impacted on the mental well-being of children.

"I get to learn how to make new friends and do things that I wouldn't do when I'm at home" says eight-year-old Layla-Mae. Active Fusions Holiday camps have brought a sense of normality back into their lives.

Layla said "at home I wouldn't be doing exercise, I don't really like it, but at camps it's fun". Trying out new activities that she thought she would never do and learning that she is actually really good. "Skateboarding was my favourite part, it is something that I have never done before. I never thought that I would be able to ride it with both my feet on the board without falling off."

It is no secret that children faced different struggles through the COVID-19 Pandemic. Layla- Mae was no stranger to the struggles. "It was bad because I couldn't see my best friend, I couldn't see her at school which made me feel really sad. "

Layla-Mae continues to look back on the experience with happy memories and continues to be friends with the people she met on camp.

When we asked her if she would come back to camps in the future, Layla instantly knew the answer. "Yes!, there is always something new happening and it makes exercise fun!"

Together Stronger - Simon's story (90-minute music)

This Summer, Active Fusion has seen over 3,500 attendances to our Fusion Camps, funded by the Department for Education's Holiday Activity Fund (HAF).

Children and young people participating in the 2021 summer programme will remember this holiday for a summer of fun and friendships, with coaches inspiring them to be more active, healthy and joyful in life.

We have seen first-hand the difference Camp activity makes to the children in need accessing our charitable support. Not only have they grown in confidence, they have developed skills for life inspired by the incredibly positive role models that have surrounded them for six weeks.

One of these role models is Simon Flynn, from 90 Minute Music. Working with the children at Camp, he has elevated their confidence to be creative and to find their creative voice through music production. Simon fell into DJing and music production inspired by someone "just giving him an opportunity" to be creative, now he is doing the same for others.

Lindsay James, Director of Active Fusion went along to Camp to see a 90MinuteMusic session in action. "As I watch Simon in action, I see how he captures the children's imagination within seconds". "Rule number one" he says to the children. They reply "We don't waste any time!"

We live in a world where we want instant results, experiences and feelings of success, after all there is no right or wrong in expressing yourself creatively. Simon creates this space for them instantly.

"I watch Simon as he weaves in subtle life lessons such as communication skills. Getting children and young people to communicate through a range of musical instruments, whilst locking in techniques such as observation for timing and direct eye contact to engage them all in his session".

This is a skill and something as a society we are losing every day. The ability to communicate and look people in the eye without staring at the sky or worse with our eyes fixed on a device! Even this activity with Simon's leadership, takes some of the children and young people out of their comfort zone.

Lindsay asked Simon what he has learned through working on the Active Fusion holiday programme. "I've not worked much with the younger children. They come out with some crazy things but I like to be surprised and be tested so it's been a great experience. I've also learned from watching your team. How they manage behaviour and talk to young people. You have an incredible young team around you".

Lindsay recalled how this remark certainly made her feel warm inside, after all she could only see the amazing work Simon was achieving, doing the very same thing, mentoring young potential musicians of the future, to achieve their potential during sessions and to hopefully aspire to a career themselves in music one day.

While Active Fusion specialises in sport, physical activity, dance and wellbeing we wanted to make sure the summer was truly wholesome, meeting the diverse interests of all children and young people. We could not have achieved this alone. Working in partnership with Simon and 15 other local organisations has enabled us to be stronger together, changing lives forever.
